Analyse

When digital data becomes the subject of dispute, CENTURION uses its forensic tool to conduct a thorough analysis. This analysis is essential to establish with certainty the relevant facts of the case.

Consulting

Digital devices are frequently used for a variety of purposes, leading to the accumulation of large quantities of data. However, despite the vast amount of information, we will accurately identify and isolate the data relevant to solving the case.

On-site support

When carrying out a corporate audit, the assistance of a forensic specialist may be required to gather critical evidence. Through on-site forensic investigation, we can quickly recover vital information that may have been suppressed or concealed.

Court testimony

A forensic investigation can be carried out on digital devices that are subject of an investigation as part of civil or criminal proceedings. By approving the accuracy and authenticity of the results of forensic analysis, more convincing arguments can be presented.
